Dutch Bros. Coffee Donating All Proceeds to Local Woman Battling Cancer

Members of the Auburn Dutch Bros. Coffee crew with Tami Cooke, beloved regular customer.

Auburn, Calif. (Jan. 14, 2013) – On Friday, Jan. 18, the Auburn Dutch Bros. Coffee location will donate all proceeds toward helping beloved regular customer Tami Cooke cover medical expenses from a long battle with kidney and lung cancers.

Friday, Jan. 18, 2013

5 a.m. to 11 p.m.

3995 Grass Valley Hwy., Auburn

ALL PROCEEDS DONATED

“Tami’s been a regular for three years now, and all of us have made a real connection with her. She’s a real strong lady, a trooper,” says local owner-operator Jeremy Mauel.

Doctors diagnosed Tami with kidney cancer in May 2011 and removed the cancerous area as part of her treatment. Then, in June 2012, Tami learned that the cancer had reappeared in her left lung.

She underwent radiation and partial removal of the left lung, only to learn soon after that another cancerous module had been discovered on her right lung.

“It has been such a long ordeal and the cancer keeps popping up, and we all feel for her and her family,” says Jeremy. “We want to help out.”

Tami's husband Sean has also been a regular since the stand first opened in 2009. Now, Dutch Bros. is his stop on the way to many doctor and hospital visits.

Jeremy and his crew ask that you come out on Friday and support the cause with your daily cup. They will also have jars available for additional customer donations.

Tami and Sean have three children, one grandchild and another grandchild on the way.
